Summary I am a web developer with experience in both backend and frontend technologies. I am looking for a position where I can continue to build on my knowledge of web development.

Career objective I would like to spend the next few years gaining the necessary skills and experience to become an expert at helping start-ups deploy their MVP and help more established businesses quickly deploy new features for their existing business.

Tech Stack

Frontend HTML, CSS, JavaScript, TypeScript, React.js, Redux

Backend Node.js, Express.js, MongoDB / NoSQL

General Working with and building REST APIs, Git version control

Soft Skills I am a self-motivated learner willing to apply my problem solving and time management skills to implement new features into a web application or perfect the frontend design of a client facing website.

I can work under pressure and am motivated to complete projects in a timely manner to allow the rest of the team to move forward and hit their goals.

I am personable and would have no problem communicating with clients, peers, or higher-ups about new features or the design of a project.
